MOLLY O'—KAHULUI THEATRE

It is with great pleasure that we announce the opening first run feature picture from the States Theatre Honolulu on Tuesday 25th. As already mentioned we are going to run these big features every Tuesday at Kahului in order that the patrons of our houses may have a chance to see the first run pictures from the States. The management feels that with this step he can feel the pulse of the theatre going public and should the patronage warrant it he will increase this service. The pictures that will be shown every Tuesday will at the same time be running both on the Coast and in New York, so it is up to the people of Maui to decide, and the box office will soon show your decision. Arrangements are under way to have the special music score played for each picture. Tuesday nights will be first run picture night at Kahului theatre and the film will be returned every Wednesday so it will be shown only at Maui's popular playhouse. Prices will be the same as Honolulu 25 cents for children and 50 cents for adults. Future attractions include such pictures as "Charlie Chaplin in 'The Kid' The Perfect Woman" "45 Minutes From Broadway" also "Pay Day" and many other first run features.

MABEL NORMAND IN

NEW ROLE AS IMP

Comedy is so abundant in "Molly O," the Associated First National Pictures attraction which is the current release at Kahului Theatre, that the fact should not be lost sight of that primarily the production is one of a very dramatic and thrilling story. It is the story of a guilty girl's fight for a place in the world, and a happiness that she could never attain if she permitted environment to overcome her.

Mack Sennett's name has become almost synonymous with hilarious comedy, so that the dramatic quality of the production comes as a revelation to those who do not recall that he was the producer of "Mickey," the picture which several years ago with Mabel Normand as the star, established a precedent for success which has never since been equalled. Molly O, the heroine, is too jolly a character to be able to keep genuine fun out of life in spite of her extremely pathetic position. Nevertheless the story of her courtship and marriage, the failure of the union and then the reconciliation, is as dramatic and thrilling a story as has ever been placed on the screen.

"STOP THIEF"

"Stop Thief!" the Goldwyn picture is said to be one of the best comedy vehicles ever interpreted by Tom Moore. As a legitimate stage offering, "Stop Thief!" made record runs and delighted audiences whenever it was presented. As a picture it has doubled its interest, and is a progression of ridiculous incidents from start to finish.

More funny things happen in the 48 hours within which the play is supposed to take place than would be thought humanly possible. Tom Moore and Hazel Daly as the thieves, disguised as maid and detective, enter the orderly house of the Carrs, where a wedding is pending, and turn it in to a chaos of confusion during which valuables disappear and reappear in the most unexplainable manner.

The accomplices are unconsciously aided in their scheming by old Mr. Carr (Ed. McWade) and the bridegroom (Raymond Hatton), who believe themselves the victims of kleptomaniacs. After the most unbelievably absurd situations, matters adjust themselves, and the play ends happily.

"Stop Thief!" was made with a supporting cast picked from Goldwyn's cleverest actors, and was directed by Harry Beaumont, the star comedy director of the Goldwyn Studios.

"THE LOVE CHARM"

What is endured in the name of Art! If you really want to know, just ask Sylvia Ashton, who is seen in an important role with Wanda Hawley in "The Love Charm."

Though you may see it while you are wearing furs and "doing your Christmas shopping early," this picture was made during the height of last Summer's heat wave. To get a few scenes of Miss Ashton seducing in a steam cabinet, she had to spend an entire morning in the thing, in a set which had to be entirely closed in and covered, so that the clouds of steam rising around her dripping, anguished face might not escape.

After that, the actress had to get into a gym suit and skip rope and perform other reducing exercises. Miss Ashton was really not keen to reduce, for her ample figure is one of her best assets in pictures, but if she had been anxious to thin herself, she might have felt well repaid for her suffering, for she lost seven pounds in half as many hours.

Miss Hawley has a particularly good supporting cast in "The Love Charm." From Warner Baxter, leading man, Sylvia Ashton, Mae Busch, and Dick Rosson, through the "jazz girls" and boys headed by Mollie McGowan, to the character part of Carrie Clarke Ward as the housekeeper, the players leave nothing to be desired, either in their suitability as types for the part played, or in their acting ability.

Thomas Heffron directed, with supervision by Elmer Harris, and William E. Collins photographed.

THE SERVANT IN THE HOUSE

Few playwrights, either for stage or screen, have equalled the remarkable character drawings that are depicted in "The Servant in the House," the H. O. Davis film production of Charles Rann Kennedy's world famed play.

In presenting the characterization of the Bishop of Lancashire, a type which symbolizes that form of professional religion that exalts itself and is deaf and blind to the simple spiritual needs of humanity Mr. Kennedy set New York and other big cities humming with controversy more than a decade ago when "The Servant in the House" made its first appearance on the stage.

The clergy and the laity that went to scoff at Mr. Kennedy's work remained to praise it as great story in the interest of true religion.

Harvey Clark, noted actor of stage and screen, plays the role of the Bishop in the H. O. Davis production and he gives a remarkable portrayal of a man whose life makes a mockery of the religion he espouses.

"WHITE HANDS"

A new high mark of screen drama is shown in the double exposure scenes in "White Hands," in which Hobart Bosworth, acting the part of the iron fisted sea captain, fights his own brute self. It is a picture you'll never forget. "White Hands" comes to this theatre this week.

servation of waters now running to waste.

Carrying out the logical development of the department of agriculture expert, there should be added additional experts, if necessary, so that the homesteader shall have the benefit of advice and suggestion that will assist him in securing good crops and marketing them to advantage. This is now recognized throughout the United States as a proper service due the farmer.

Marketing his products is a vital factor in assuring the success of the homesteader. The Republican party stands for a business-like survey of the marketing problem, governmental regulation of marketing methods, if this be necessary to better guarantee the homesteader a square deal; an intelligent use of publicity so that the producer and the consumer may be brought in closer relations for their mutual benefit.

The Republican party pledges itself to ferret out and overthrow any combination aiming to control food products and market; it pledges itself to the enactment of legislation tending to ameliorate the peculiar conditions under which the average homesteader is now working.

Citizen Labor

Citizens of Hawaii are already reaping the benefits of the new opportunities offered them through the passage of the law by a Republican congress that all labor employed on federal work in this territory shall be citizen labor. Definite results are the best proof of Republican ability and intention to fulfill party promises.

Public Education

The Republican party has always stood for the protection and development of the American public schools. The Republican party in Hawaii stands on that principle today. It is responsible for the securing of adequate support to the schools and of adequate compensation for the teachers and its continued support is hereby pledged.

We favor industrial education in the schools and the establishment of vocational schools and pledge our support to a revision of our educational system looking to the closest co-operation of education with the industries on which we rely for support.

To carry out such a school program efficiently we recognize the necessity for well-equipped teachers and, therefore, we favor a high standard of preparation for teaching.

We recognize our own responsibility to participate in the education of the young Americans of the alien ancestry. We appreciate the difficulties confronting these young Americans, their lack of family tradition in things American, the claim of allegiance set forth by the government of their parents.

Solemnly we pledge our party to the effort that through education in the schools, through even-handed justice in the courts and through every American institution in this territory, the citizens of the United States here born or resident, whatever may be their racial antecedents, shall be trained to do their full duty and to carry their full responsibility.

University of Hawaii

The University of Hawaii is an asset of growing importance and value. We commend the progress already made in training young men and women to take active part in the industries of Hawaii and in civic affairs. We pledge our continued interest and support to the development of the university to the end that it may have the necessary personnel and equipment to care for the rapidly expanding student body, and to extend the opportunities of university study to those who are unable to attend as resident students.

The University of Hawaii, through the researches of its scientific department, has helped to bring the light of hope and assurance of cure to those afflicted with leprosy. This accomplishment of what had been declared impossible should be followed up with liberal provision for further research so as to hasten the day when this dread disease shall be wiped out in Hawaii and the intelligent treatment inaugurated here shall be spread throughout the world.

Public Health

Believing that the prevention of disease is easier and economically more desirable than attempts to cure, we express our approval of such measures as will tend to improve and conserve the health of our children. The system of school dentists should be extended. There should be school nurses, trained to detect bodily defects and diseases, who shall not only instruct and guide the child while in school, but, whenever desirable, visit the home to instruct and guide the parent in the care of the child. They shall see that indigent, undernourished children are given proper food, and that children suffering from adenoids, enlarged tonsils, defective sight and hearing, and other such diseases and defects, are provided with proper medical and surgical attention.

The legislature of 1921 provided a clinic for the treatment of venereal diseases. Hospital care for certain of the more serious cases has proved desirable and should be provided.

There should be additional sanitary inspectors for the districts of Honolulu and Hilo and additional facilities for the prompt handling and removal of garbage. The rat-proofing of all seaports in the territory is urged as a means of protecting the public health.

Revision of Primary Law

We believe that experience has demonstrated that, under a form of government such as ours, the best results in the enactment of legislation and in the administration of public affairs can be maintained through the maintenance of virile and effective party organizations and we pledge the representatives of our party in the legislature to the amending of the law so as to provide the partisan and independent primaries to the end that the primary elections be held in such a manner so that each voter shall vote only as a member of a party or as an independent and that the integrity as well as the secrecy of the primary be maintained.

Pensions

We believe in the principle of pensions to all public servants who by their faithful, efficient and long-continued service have been useful contributors to public welfare.

Regulation of Public Utilities

We believe that the Cummins bill now pending in congress of the United States providing for the amendment of the Inter-State Commerce acts by making them inapplicable to the Territory of Hawaii and thereby rendering all local public utilities now subject to regulation by the Inter-State Commerce Commission subject to local regulation only is in harmony with the home rule doctrine heretofore advocated by the Republican party in the management of local affairs. We therefore endorse the principle of local regulation of all public utilities under proper local legislative action.

Taxation

We believe in the revision of the present tax law governing the assessment and collection of the tax on real and personal property within the territory and we pledge our legislative candidates to work for such revision looking to a more equitable assessment and better distribution of taxes collected between the territory and the several counties thereof.

Hawaii Tourist Bureau

Promotion: We endorse the activities of the Hawaii Tourist Bureau and commend its policy of increasing main land travel connections. We favor liberal appropriations for assistance of carrying out the work which has done so much to acquaint the traveling public with Hawaii's attractions in scenic beauty and world wonders and to keep in line with similar efforts by other parts of the world.

Civil Service

We favor such legislation as will correct such abuses as may have grown out of the enforcement of all parts of Chapter 117 of the Revised Laws of Hawaii, 1915, and all amendments thereto, relating to the police department of Honolulu, City.

Distribution of War Trophies

We pledge our senators and representatives to the legislature in work for the passage of a bill appropriating a sufficient amount of money to pay for the expenses of securing and distributing Hawaii's pro rata of the war trophies now stored in the United States government warehouse at Newark Bay, N. J.

Social Welfare

The Republican party in Hawaii favors legislation for social welfare. It pledges its support to all measures that promise to increase the health, happiness and well being of the people of these islands, and especially of those in need of the care and training that only the state can give.

The youth of Hawaii must be protected and given a chance to develop. The institutions for the care of children in need of special training and supervision merit support ample to meet their needs. The Girls' Industrial School is so badly over-crowded that its necessary expansions should no longer be deferred. We favor an appropriation adequate to construct the necessary buildings on the site provided by the legislature of 1921. At the home for the feeble-minded provision should be made for the care of low grade cases.

The Psychological and Psychopathic Clinic, created by the legislature of 1921, has already demonstrated that its work is a necessary adjunct to the proper functioning of these schools; it work should be continued and broadened.

We favor a new site for the Oahu Insane Asylum; the necessary buildings to properly care for the insane, and sufficient land furnished the inmates for occupational purposes.

A social agency of even greater importance than the special schools is the Court of Domestic Relations, also created by the legislature of 1921. Its purpose is primarily not to punish the wrong-doer, as much as to prevent the wrong-doing. Its probation officers are not police who arrest, but friends who understand and guide and assist. We affirm our faith in the principles of this court, and promise our support to whatever measures may increase its power and effectiveness.

Equal Rights For Women

We highly appreciate the action of our delegate to congress in introducing in congress the bill giving to the women voters of Hawaii the right to hold public office. This bill has already passed the House of Representatives and is now before the Senate. We urge the final passage of this bill, in the hope that our women citizens will eventually share equally with the men in the privilege of serving the public in the government of Hawaii.

Conclusion

We conclude by appealing to the young men and women who are about to cast their first ballot, to associate themselves with the Republican party which has always stood and still unswervingly stands for loyalty to the Stars and Stripes, for the perpetuation of the fundamental principles of the Constitution, for the defense of the nation's honor, for the equality under the law of all classes and creeds, for progress and efficiency and for equal opportunities for all loyal citizens in every line of honest endeavor.
